WAR INDUSTRY HARD HIT

Nearly All Shafts Manned
By UMW Throughout
Nation Idle

By International News Service
The nation waited tensely today for the first response of an estimated 440,000 striking coal miners to President Roosevelt's executive order authorizing the seizure of the mines and calling on the men to go back to work by tomorrow morning.

With virtually all of the nation's coal mines shut down in the fourth general wartime strike in the industry, the unauthorized walk-outs already have crippled seriously the nation's war effort.

The strike over the failure to reach an agreement with the operators in the six-months-old wage controversy was almost 100 percent effective when President Roosevelt authorized Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes to seize the mines and conclude bargaining contracts with the miners. It was the second time the government seized the mines in World War II.

Mines All Idle
Nearly all the mines operated by the United Mine Workers of America, representing 540,000 hard and soft coal miners, were idle. They were joined by at least 60 percent of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, AFL, in Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky.

In most of the struck mines, only maintenance crews remained. Whether a substantial back-to-work movement would get underway by tomorrow depended largely on the outcome of today's meeting in Washington of the UMW's policy committee with John L. Lewis, union president.

There was a strong possibility, however, that many strikers would return to their jobs late today. When the government first seized the mines early this year, a large number of strikers started a back-to-work movement before the deadline.

Production Hard Hit

But adequate production to replenish the nation's dwindling stockpiles of coal was out of the question for the remainder of the week. Estimates were that it would take months before the thousands of tons of coal lost in the unauthorized strikes would be made up.

Most reports on the possibility of a general back-to-work movement.

Moscow Pact Blasts
All Japanese Hopes
For Negotiated Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—Highly authoritative diplomatic sources in Washington said today the Moscow pact blasts any hopes Japan may hold of getting a compromise or negotiated peace in the Pacific.

Attention was called to the fact that under the Moscow pact, the United States, Great Britain and China have solemnly pledged they will wage war against Japan until that country surrenders unconditionally.

This represents the first time that China has joined with the United States and Great Britain in a joint official declaration to apply the policy of unconditional surrender to Japan.

Application of this policy to Japan is provided for in the first part of the joint four-power Moscow declaration. This states that the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China will "continue hostilities against those Axis powers with which they respectively are at war until such powers have laid down their arms on the basis of unconditional surrender."

Russ To Cooperate
While the language of this commitment exempts Russia from any immediate involvement in the Pacific war, there are other parts of the four-power declaration which diplomatic Washington believes will bring the Soviet Union into future cooperation with the other three major Allied powers in the Far East.

It is pointed out article five of the Moscow declaration provides that, for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security pending the reestablishment of law and order, the four powers will "consult with one another" with a view to "joint action on behalf of the community of nations." The declaration does not say this geographically unlimited consultation and "joint action" necessarily has to wait until after this war.

Allies Optimistic
It is known that both President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill are confident Russia will join in the war against Japan after Germany has been defeated. The view prevails in some diplomatic circles that article five of the joint declaration might well be invoked for Russia's entry into the Pacific conflict at some later date.

Another statement which diplomatic observers thought might be construed as morally obligating Russia eventually to help directly in the war against Japan was the following:

The four powers are "conscious" of their responsibility to secure the liberation of themselves and the people allied with them from the menace of aggression. It is noted that the United States, Britain and China—allies of Russia—are menaced by Japanese aggression.

Meanwhile, official Washington expected the Moscow pact to have tremendous psychological repercussions in Germany and the Axis-controlled territories of Europe.

Some high officials thought news of the pact might hasten the internal collapse of Germany. It is considered highly probable that it will lead to intensified resistance against the Nazis in the conquered countries. Diplomatic Washington was eagerly awaiting some indication of the reaction in Austria to the allied appeal for revolt there.

STRIKES PROMPT
DRAFT BOARD TO CEASE ACTION

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Nov. 2—The Morrison county draft board was on strike today in a dramatic protest against the current coal strike which resulted in the government's seizure of mines and an order by President Roosevelt that all miners be back at their jobs by tomorrow morning.

The four members of the board wrote the following to state selective headquarters, President Roosevelt, U. S. Sen. Joseph Ball (R., Minn.) and Rep. Harold Knutson (R., Minn.):

"We wish to go on record as refusing to process any more men for induction until all strikers are settled for the duration.

"If a million men can go on strike, who is going to support the soldiers already in the armed forces? Why put more men into the service if we cannot take care of those already in?"

Hail Long Message

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—House anti-subsidy members met the ultimatum of President Roosevelt's food message today with announced determination to "stand fast" against consumer subsidies until the administration shows some willingness to compromise.

Barring such compromise, they warned, congress faces another knock-down-drag-out fight with the White House next month over the administration's demand for authority to combat inflation with subsidy payments. The "time squeeze" now admittedly favoring the President because of the year-end deadline on continuing the Commodity Credit Corporation can "be made to work the other way," they added.

"We haven't been able to develop a compromise yet," said Rep. Wolcott (R.) Mich., leader of the subsidy opposition. "The President hasn't shown any disposition to give any ground."

Socialization Feared

Wolcott charged that administration insistence on the consumer subsidy formula represents "a deliberate attempt to socialize agriculture—a fight over authority to control production, processing and distribution of all foods."

Democratic leaders, including Majority Leader McCormack, Mass., were confident that the house would sustain a Presidential vote of the pending bill banning consumer subsidies after December 31. Both sides agreed that the measure would not be brought up until mid-November.

Foes Gain Strength

Wolcott contended that the anti-subsidy forces in the house have gained strength since the veto test of last Spring when the house upheld the president's rejection of a previous subsidy prohibition. Only 18 additional votes (Continued on Page Two)

MURDERED WIFE

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Reports that Mrs. Patricia Burton Lonergan, slain heiress to a beer fortune of seven millions, had cut off her husband and confessed slayer, RCAF Cadet Wayne Lonergan, in her will were confirmed today.

The recently-changed will, just filed for probate, bequeaths her entire estate to her 18-months-old son, Wayne William Lonergan. The murdered beauty signed the document last August 19.

Attorney for Mrs. Lonergan, whose strangled and bluegowned body was found October 24 in her triplex apartment in the Beekman hill section, declined to estimate the size of the fortune to revert to the Lonergan infant.

Most of the estate was said to be tied up in a trust fund originally amounting to four million, but greatly increased since.

Three lawyers were appointed yesterday in general sessions to defend Lonergan against the murder charge.

Trustees Of Community
Chest Decide Against
New County Campaign

With sufficient money remaining in its treasury to meet 1943 obligations, Pickaway county Community Chest trustees voted Monday night to refrain from conducting a financial campaign this year.

At the same time, the trustees decided to affiliate the Community Chest organization with the current national drive of the National War Fund, voting to meet the county's National War Fund quota of $16,328.78.

The National War Fund campaign is now being conducted with a goal of $125,000,000. Of this quota, Ohio is expected to raise $7,854,150.

The National War Fund has recently been established by President Roosevelt, and is designed to cover all major war needs, with the exception of the American Red Cross.

Functions financed by the National War Fund include U. S. O., United China Relief, Greek, Polish, Russian, United Yugoslav, French, Norwegian and Allied War Relief, War Prisoners' Aid, United Seamen's Relief, U. S. Committee for Care of European Children, in addition to other projects designed for national and world service.

Trustees reelected all officers who served during the last year, naming Frank Fischer as chairman, Robert G. Colville as treasurer, and Mack D. Parrett as secretary. Judge Meeker Terwilliger, who also attended Monday's meeting, is honorary chairman. He headed War Chest activities during World War I.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox revealed today that American Marines carried out the invasion of Japanese-held Bougainville island in the Solomons and also added that the U. S. fleet is ready to fight the Japanese navy anywhere.

At his weekly news conference, the secretary said that the Marine invaders with the support of air and naval forces and of the army, navy and marine corps, caught the Japanese by surprise when they landed on the enemy's last big stronghold in the Solomons.

Knox was asked if the American navy was ready for a "show-down" battle with the Japanese fleet should the enemy move to force in an attempt to check the latest Allied thrust. He replied: "We have been hoping that the Japanese surface forces would come out for a long time, but we have failed to find them in force anywhere."

Knox explained that the latest offensive operation began with a bombing of Buka and Ballale at extreme ends of Bougainville by airmen under Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr.

In a spectacular blow against the flank anchors of the new German line running from the west coast to the Venafro mountains, the U. S. Fifth Army today pierced through and threatened the Germans' most formidable defenses south of Rome.

American troops shattered the German right flank anchor by storming the towering ridge of the Matese chain therewith placing themselves in control of the upper eastern Volturno valley and the Isernia highway. Although the exact identity of the ridge is not known, it is believed that the Milietto massif is involved. This is a height rising to 6,720 feet, Venafro itself stands within easy artillery range of the American troops.

The British on the Fifth Army flank staged an equally spectacular move by smashing the Germans out of important positions on the Massigno ridge and capturing Casanova. This formidable barrier, apparently about to fall entirely into Allied hands, dominates all approaches from a radius of many miles. Its fall would practically compel the enemy west end wing to consider a general withdrawal to the Garigliano river, provided the pressure from the Isernia and Venafro direction permits a stand that far south.

Hampered By Weather

Despite foul weather, which bogged down the Allied assault forces, Generals Clark and Montgomery concentrated their attacks on the central sector of the German line. However, other portions of the Germans' defenses were not forgotten, for the communique revealed gains in the southern sector as well.

The Northwest African Air Force ignored the bad flying weather to pound Rimini and Ancona, harbor towns on the north Adriatic coast. A direct hit was scored on an enemy vessel at Ancona, and the shipyard there also was struck.

Russ Move Ahead

On the Russian front thousands on thousands of German and Romanian troops are faced with death or capture because of sweeping new Soviet gains which cut the lone evacuation railroad and the only evacuation highway over which the Axis soldiers could escape from the Crimea.

VOTE INTEREST
EXHIBITED IN RURAL AREAS

Considerable interest in Tuesday's election is being shown throughout rural Pickaway county, while Circleville folk are moving to the polls merely to provide a complimentary ballot for candidates who are running for office without opposition.

Very few votes are being cast in Circleville, some precincts fully manned in accordance with Ohio law—reporting from eight to 15 votes marked by noon.

In some rural townships the election was taking on more interest. Trustees, school board members, justices of the peace and others were to be named, and contests were sending many persons to the polls.

The election board intends to remain on the job Tuesday evening until each precinct presiding judge has completed his report. Every judge is ordered to take his report to the board office Tuesday as soon as all votes have been counted.

In Circleville, 19-year-old ... was being elected officially for his second term.

American troops shattered the German right flank anchor by storming the towering ridge of the Matese chain therewith placing themselves in control of the upper eastern Volturno valley and the Isernia highway. Although the exact identity of the ridge is not known, it is believed that the Milietto massif is involved. This is a height rising to 6,720 feet, Venafro itself stands within easy artillery range of the American troops.

The British on the Fifth Army flank staged an equally spectacular move by smashing the Germans out of important positions on the Maficco ridge and capturing Casanova. This formidable barrier, apparently about to fall entirely into Allied hands, dominates all approaches from a radius of many miles. Its fall would practically compel the enemy west end wing to consider a general withdrawal to the Garigliano river, provided the pressure from the Isernia and Venafro direction permits a stand that far south.

Hampered By Weather
Despite foul weather, which bogged down the Allied assault forces, Generals Clark and Montgomery concentrated their attacks on the central sector of the German line. However, other portions of the Germans' defenses were not forgotten, for the communie revealed gains in the southern sector as well.

The Northwest African Air Force ignored the bad flying weather to pound Rimini and Ancona, harbor towns on the north Adriatic coast. A direct hit was scored on an enemy vessel at Ancona, and the shipyard there also was struck.

Spezia harbor, and a bridge northeast of Spezia, received the attention of Allied heavy bombers.

Russ Move Ahead
On the Russian front thousands on thousands of German and Roman troops are faced with death or capture because of sweeping new Soviet gains which cut the lone evacuation highway over which the Axis soldiers could escape from the Crimea.

EXHIBITED IN RURAL AREAS

Considerable interest in Tuesday's election is being shown throughout rural Pickaway county, while Circleville folk are moving to the polls merely to provide a complimentary ballot for candidates who are running for office without opposition.

Very few votes are being cast in Circleville, some precincts fully manned in accordance with Ohio law—reporting from eight to 15 votes marked by noon.

In some rural townships the election was taking on more interest. Trustees, school board members, justices of the peace and others were to be named, and contests were sending many persons to the polls.

The election board intends to remain on the job Tuesday evening until each precinct presiding judge has completed his report. Every judge is ordered to take his report to the board office Tuesday as soon as all votes have been counted.

In Circleville, Mayor Don Scott was being elected officially for his second term.

etsy-Vai—ancient wall built by the Turks while they occupied the Crimea in the 17th and 18th centuries—the Soviets overwhelmed strong Nazi fortifications and captured Perekop and Armyansk, on the Perekop isthmus.

Thus effectively closing the Crimean trap, the Soviets encompassed virtually the whole of the Nogais steppe and during the last three days reoccupied 410 inhabited localities. During Monday's fighting from the Perekop isthmus sector to the Dnieper loop region the Soviets claim to have killed more than 5,700 Nazis. German casualties will probably be much higher as the Russian communiqué said data from this area "still was incomplete." In the last 24 hours, Moscow claimed, more than 6,000 Nazis officers and men and "vast quantities" of material were captured.

Push Against Japs

In the southwest Pacific the final drive to push the Japs out of the northern Solomons got under way. Daring the son of heaven's fleet to come out of its year-long hiding and fight, General Douglas MacArthur sent amphibious American units onto the beaches of Bougainville island, last Jap stronghold in the Solomons.

"If the Jap fleet comes out I will welcome it," MacArthur challenged. "I would throw everything I have against it."

But there was no doubt in Washington that the American fleet and air forces in the Pacific were fully prepared—and eager—for any possible counterblow the Japs might employ.

Military and politically, great satisfaction was expressed today from all quarters of the United Nations with the accomplishments of the Moscow conferences.

U.S. Marines Catch Japs By Surprise

Knox said. "The enemy was not prepared for it."

Knox paid tribute to Marine corps fliers who have been in action in the Solomons for some time. He expressed regret at the fact that there has been little mention of Marine pilots' activities although approximately 200 have been in action in the South Pacific.

For weeks now it has been no secret in Washington that America's rapidly expanding fleet and air forces have been seeking a "show-down" battle with Japan's remaining fleet units which have been in hiding for almost a year.

The invasion of Bougainville by American land, sea and air forces was a direct threat to Japan's last grip on the Solomons as well as a menace to the important enemy base on Rabaul.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur clearly indicated that American sea-air forces in the South and Southwest Pacific were prepared for any eventuality when he asserted he would "welcome" counter-action by the Jap fleet.

These strong words expressed dramatically the change in the military situation in that area during the past 12 months.

THREE APPEAL CLASSIFICATION BY DRAFT BOARD

Three more appeals from I-A Selective Service classifications, boosting to five the total filed in the last week, were reported Tuesday by the local draft board.

The classifications involved are of John Henry Purnell, Dayton, formerly of Logan street, who requests a 3-D classification claiming it is a hardship case; Earl Lee Dean, West High street, whose I-A classification is being appealed by his employer, Curtis-Wright Corporation of Columbus, and Robert W. Michaels, Grove City Route 2, whose file was forwarded to the board of appeals since he requests a farm deferment.

Twenty-six Circleville and Pickaway county men will report at the courthouse Thursday at 3:30 p. m., Circleville time, in preparation for their trip to an army center for assignment and classification. The group is ending its 21 day furlough period which followed induction.

The November contingent, also leaving this week, is to report to the local board at 7 a. m., Circleville time, date on which the group leaves may not be announced.

POLICE COURT ACTIVE

Police court activity, quiet during the last several days, stepped up a little Monday night when three men were lodged in the city jail for intoxication. They were Frank J. Lickers, American Hotel, who posted $10 bond; Floyd Moats, Columbus, freed on $10 bond, and Garner Alderman, South Court street, held for hearing.

Kentuckians went to the polls to elect a governor and eight other state officials for terms of four years.

In the campaign of J. Lyter Donaldson, Democratic candidate for governor, the voters were urged to make their ballots a vote of confidence in the national administration and its conduct of the war and domestic affairs.

Donaldson's opponent, Judge Simeon S. Willis of Ashland, campaigned against what he termed "machine rule at Frankfort" and questioned the patriotism of politicians who "for mere political advantage" raise the issue of the loyalty of Republicans.

Voting In Ohio

Only a small percentage of qualified voters were expected to go to the polls today to decide Ohio's municipal, county and township elections. In a few instances, where spirited contests have been waged, might this expectation be deviated from.

Mayorality contests in Columbus, Lima, Canton, Youngstown, Marietta and Steubenville are believed to be the hottest and will therefore poll the heaviest voting. In some municipalities voters will merely choose councilmen who in turn will elect either the mayor or city manager. Cincinnati and Toledo follows this procedure. In these cities, however, councilmen are elected by the proportional representation method and the results will not be known for several days.

The rural vote for justices of the peace and other township offices is expected to be light. Members of county boards of election are also to be named.

In Columbus City Auditor James A. Rhodes (R) opposes Franklin County Sheriff Jacob E. Sandusky, (D) in the mayorality race.

In Cleveland, Frank Lausche (D) incumbent is opposed by Edward M. Stanton, (R).

Mayor James Garfield Stewart, elected by council is seeking another term as Cincinnati's chief executive. Stewart is also seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination, he announced.

FRANK FISCHER TELLS PASTORS ABOUT RUSSIA

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, addressed the Pickaway county Ministerial association Monday at the Episcopal parish house on "Russia." Mr. Fischer warned his listeners against mere wishful thinking in regard to the Soviet Union.

The school man expressed his fears as well as his hopes for the future, explaining that each side in the war is comprised of strange bedfellows. He stated that what is desperately needed is plain speaking both by American and England and in Stalinist Russia.

Mr. Fischer led the period of questioning and discussion which followed his talk.

The Ministerial Association is sponsoring a half-hour service in the Episcopal church at noon Armistice Day, November 11, the meeting to be addressed by the Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the Methodist church. The offering will be given to War Relief.

On Thanksgiving eve, November 24, the association will hold a United Service, also in the Episcopal church, with the Rev. Carl L. Kennedy of the Presbyterian church as the preacher.

SUGAR THIEVES DRAW FINE AND JAIL SENTENCE

Howard and Clifford French, New Holland brothers, were each fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail Tuesday by Squire B. T. Hedges when they pleaded guilty of theft of 60 pounds of sugar from a Clyde Boecher truck. The theft was perpetrated in New Holland last week when the Boecher truck was parked in front of the Red and White store making deliveries.

The charge against the brothers, arrested following investigation by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, was filed by Boecher. The truck driver helped in the investigation by writing down the number of the automobile which fled from the village at the time of the theft.

Mrs. Anna Lewis, mother-in-law of Howard French, who was arrested with the brothers because she was in the car at the time of the theft, was released without charges being put against her.

were needed then to override the veto, he pointed out.

And as evidence of increased strength, he cited the 16 to 10 vote in the house banking and currency committee by which the present subsidy-banning bill was recently reported. Previously, Wolcott said, he had been unable to muster majority support in committee for a subsidy restrictive amendment and was forced to offer it from the floor of the house.

Rep. Patman (D) Tex., led Democrats applauding Mr. Roosevelt's stand, saying:

"The President has again asked congress for teamwork and unity in prosecuting this war and preventing inflation. Under the guise of fighting the President on domestic issues, many people are operating in open rebellion against our government in this total war. . . . No person can study the question of subsidies without being convinced that they are the only alternative to run-away inflation."

Members lined up with Wolcott emphasized they opposed only consumer subsidies, not payments to producers designed to boost production.

DISAPPEARANCE OF PAIR IN 1925 MAY BE SOLVED

HORNELL, N. Y., Nov. 2—Solution of the mysterious disappearance 18 years ago of Frank Murphy and Mrs. Esta Stott may be near today.

Police prepared to dig up an old trysting place in a hunt for the bodies of the couple.

Meanwhile Judge George S. King, who ruled that there is sufficient evidence against George Stott, the woman's husband, to hold him for the grand jury on a charge of kidnapping Murphy, said he would act within three days on a request by Acting District Attorney John W. Hollis of Steuben county that Stott's bail be fixed at $25,000.

A few hours before Stott was held for the January grand jury on the kidnapping charge, a mill worker who formerly lived on a farm adjoining Miller hill, three miles northeast of Hornell, told authorities he recalled hearing a woman's scream and several shots years ago. Walking through the woods later, he said, he found a large mound of freshly-dug earth.

VENIRE EXHAUSTED IN FINCH MURDER TRIAL

Hearing of murder charges against Charles Finch, 46, alias Eugene Carson, formerly of Williamsport, is being delayed at Connersville, Ind., until a jury can be completed.

The names of the regular venire and of 50 special veniremen already have been exhausted without a jury being selected. It was hoped the jury could be seated Tuesday.

Finch was arrested on a failure to provide charge here, five years after he is charged with killing Joseph Schoenfeld, 69, of near Connersville. His fingerprints, sent to the FBI by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff, resulted in his arrest as a murder suspect.

Mr. Fischer said Tuesday that it "is with deep satisfaction that the trustees are able to announce that, with the exception of funds to be sought for the American Red Cross and for the Pickaway county Public Health League, no additional drive for local and war purposes need be undertaken here this year."

In addition to the $16,328.78 set aside for the National War Fund, the Community Chest has spent $24,129.47 since it was put into operation.

Expenditures listed include: American Red Cross, $12,704.14; U. S. After all anticipated expenditures have been made for 1943 the Chest trustees expect to have a balance of $2,018.70 in their treasury with another $1,000 in estimated future receipts to be added.

Among anticipated expenditures is $500 for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Honor Roll, which is nearly completed at the courthouse.

MUSCLE MAIDS DOING GOOD JOB AS "SMASHERS"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—A railway express company official said today that the muscle maids who sling baggage for his company inspire poetry from the patrons instead of nasty lawsuits.

The express company has been employing women for the last few months to drive their trucks and handle baggage weighing less than 60 pounds as a wartime measure.

There have been fewer accidents since women have been replacing men as truck drivers, he added, and women are more likely to be careful in handling a client's property.

Women are paid the same salaries as the men they replaced. Most of the girls are attractive and more than half of them are married. One is the wife of an army captain and several others are service wives.

Ages range from 20 to 28. One of the best women drivers the company has weighs about 110 pounds and has to sit well forward when driving if her feet are to reach the floor.

LACK OF DRAFT CARD LAID TO TWO YEAR DRUNK

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Nov. 2—John J. Carney, 41, of Chicago wasn't quite sure today why he didn't have a draft card, but he had a vague suspicion it might have been because he had been drunk for the last two years.

He said that during this period he had been pretty hazy as to his whereabouts and that when he was arrested in a Waukegan beauty parlor he had no idea where he was.

"I signed up for something once," he told police. "I thought it was the draft, but it must have been something else."

YANKEES STAGE REHEARSAL OF INVASION - DRIVE

HEADQUARTERS U. S. ARMY ASSAULT TRAINING CENTER, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, NOV. 2—A rehearsal of the coming Allied invasion of German-occupied Europe was held here over the last week end, authorities revealed today.

The very latest American invasion methods, and weapons hitherto on the secret list, were demonstrated for the first time to a number of high-ranking American Army and Navy officers who witnessed the "show."

Every conceivable type of amphibious craft was used to roll American troops up on the mined beach—a shore which was selected for this exercise because of its geographic similarity to German coastal positions.

A full battalion of U. S. water-borne troops staged the invasion preview, approaching from the sea and moving on masses as shock-troops to attack a heavily-fortified obstacle which simulated a Nazi position.

After their successful landing on the beach these troops fought their way inland to strike at a strong "hedgehog" position. They were under fire of live ammunition throughout.

ment getting under way by the deadline tomorrow were optimistic, but considerable caution was expressed by some operators. Fred Wilkey, secretary of the Illinois Operators' Association, said:

"We can only wait and see what develops at John L. Lewis' policy committee meeting in Washington."

George F. Campbell, president of the Illinois operators, said he believed all of Illinois' 25,000 striking coal miners would be back to work either by tomorrow or Thursday.

Start In South

The strikes, which started in Alabama 20 days ago after the government returned the mines to their owners, already have crippled seriously the nation's war production. Nearly a score of blast furnaces producing steel and pig iron for the war effort have been banked in Alabama alone because of the coal shortage.

Railroads had at least a month's supply on hand except the Pennsylvania and the New York Central which depended largely on coal from Indiana where the unauthorized strikes have been crippling production for more than two weeks. The latter two roads estimated their stockpiles would last for only two weeks.

Householders, it was estimated, had on hand about 100,000 tons of coal throughout the nation. Most retail merchants reported they had ample supplies for the present, but they feared that most of the future production would be diverted to the vital war industries until full production gets under way.

Most reports showed that utilities, too, had ample supplies for the present. Reserves in most cases were estimated at four to nine months throughout the nation.

Estimates are that at least 440,000 miners were idle. A comprehensive count showed that 250,000 soft coal and 80,000 hard coal miners were on strike in Pennsylvania; between 25,000 and 30,000 out in Ohio; 23,000 in Illinois; 21,000 in Alabama; 11,000 in Kentucky; 5,000 in Indiana, and 6,500 in Missouri and Kansas.

Population Loss Of 6.6 Percent Listed In Pickaway County

Pickaway county's civilian population is gradually decreasing, a survey made by the U. S. Bureau of Census showing that the county has lost 6.6 percent of its population from April 1, 1940, to March 1, 1943. The census bureau reported that the county's population in 1940 was 27,889, but that in the three year period up to March, 1943, it had skidded to 26,035.

Figures reported by the Census Bureau were obtained through a check of registrations for War Ration Book 2. Allowances were made for inaccuracies in the registration report.

Allowances were made also for men and women in service, the Census Bureau reported. Numerous other rural southern Ohio counties listed decreases during the same period, Ross losing 10.2 percent, Perry 23.8 percent, Madison 7.6 percent, Hocking 21.2 percent, Fayette 8.6 percent, Fairfield 9.3 percent, and Vinton 23.1 percent.

The Ohio civilian population dropped 1.2 percent during the same period. The population in March, 1943, was reported at 6,822,021 for the state compared with 6,904,423 for 1940.

Only 18 of Ohio's counties showed a rise in population, and nearly all of these were industrial counties. However, Wood county, which is rural, showed a gain of 31.9 percent. Greene's gain was 21.5 percent and Montgomery jumped 15.6 percent.

Three counties in which war industry predominates showed decreases. They were Lucas, Mahoning and Cuyahoga.

Greatest gain in population was in Montgomery county of which Dayton with its Patterson and Wright fields is the center. The gain there was 46,073 boosting the county's total population to 341,553 or up 15.6 percent. Hamilton county jumped 5.2 percent and Franklin county went up 7.7 percent.

The Census Bureau declared that the survey showed a decided transfer of population from the rural southeastern Ohio area to metropolitan areas.

Why should we tolerate mutilation and destruction of property under the guise of perpetuating some pagan custom? The Chamber of Commerce did a fine thing in providing the costume parade as an outlet for the kids high spirits and masquerade parties are fine but now is the time to take some action toward preventing this abuse of public tolerance in the future. Parents could do a lot to prevent this abuse. Our police department is not large enough to cover the entire town area but if a law were made, making it a civil offense to soap windows and the parents of a few of the violators were sent to jail and next day compelled to wash the windows at a time when most folk could see them; it would do a lot to deter the practice. Another method might be too drastic but results could be obtained by declaring a curfew on youngsters being on the streets after dark on days of the Halloween period.

Certainly the public has suffered this abuse long enough and action should be taken right now to prevent it in the future.

Yours truly,

VOICE...of the...PEOPLE

To The Editor:

Halloween pranks certainly made a fine contribution this year to the cause of Hitler and Hirohito.

After the articles that appeared in The Herald, the youngsters showed a particular lack of patriotism.

Enough material was wasted in soaping the show windows and entire front windows at Brehmer Greenhouses, to require the patient saving of fats for several weeks by some patriotic housewife. She hoarded waste fats in order that some hilarious hoodlum could show what a valiant chap he was by soaping windows where no one lived and he stood a poor chance of being caught at his act of vandalism. The vandal or vandals were boys large enough to read what had been written in The Herald, for smaller kids could not have reached so high on the windows. Not only were the windows smeared with enough material to make a lot of ammunition but sand and grit imbedded in the soap seriously scratched the plate glass.

Why should we tolerate mutilation and destruction of property under the guise of perpetuating some pagan custom? The Chamber of Commerce did a fine thing in providing the costume parade as an outlet for the kids high spirits and masquerade parties are fine but now is the time to take some action toward preventing this abuse of public tolerance in the future. War Ration Book No. 4, necessary for purchase of many commodities, is held by 22,666 Pickaway county persons, only 55 fewer than registered for Book 2.

In Circleville, 7,959 persons obtained Book 4, compared with 8,106 who received Book 2. Mr. Stebleton said Tuesday that there had been some duplication in the registration despite efforts of school teachers. The books were very thin, he said, and several times when registrars were handing books to applicants they picked up more than one. Several books have been returned by persons who received them in this manner. Any other persons who obtained duplicate books are urged to return them no later than next Tuesday.

The registration was operated in a smooth manner, the rationing office declared, and today H. T. Beckmann, district OPA director, praised school teachers for their assistance.

WOLFORDS LEARN OF CAMP WHERE HUNS HOLD SON

Mr. and Mrs. John Wolford of Pickaway township received information today from Mrs. Dorothy Saggese, 92 White street, East Boston, Mass., concerning the German prison camp, Stalag Luft 3, where their son, Lieutenant Lawrence Wolford, is reported to be a prisoner of war.

Mrs. Saggese wrote the Wolfords that she had "received some information about Stalag Luft 3 and I am sure you will be interested."

Young Wolford became a war prisoner when the Flying Fortress on which he was a bombardier failed to return after a raid on Hamburg.

The camp, Mrs. Saggese wrote, is in Sagan, in a pine woods area about 85 miles southeast of Berlin. "It has a healthy climate and is cool throughout the Summer. In it are prisoners of mixed nationality, with over 1,000 Americans, all air force officers, and about 3,500 British officers predominating. "In fact," she wrote, "it would be difficult to find any Allied nation not represented there."

The American compound's one square mile of area is divided into 15 buildings each housing 80 men. There is a good athletic field, large theatre made by the men

KIWANIS MAPS ANNUAL DINNER FOR GRID STARS

Kiwanians started to make plans Monday evening for their annual football banquet, honoring the high school lettermen and their coaches, when Harold Limback, club president, named Renick W. Dunlap, Hal Dean and Glen Geib as members of a committee to arrange the affair. The football banquet is usually one of the highlights of the Kiwanis club's yearly program.

Date and location for the banquet have not yet been worked out, although it will probably be in late November or early December.

The club, meeting in Hanley's tearoom, heard a discussion by Earl Caulkins of the Northern Columbus Kiwanis club on "Observations of a Hick Kiwanian."

Dwight Steele, who headed a cigaret fund campaign in the Spring, read cards from several soldiers overseas who received cigarets paid for through the Kiwanis fund. All expressed thanks for the smokes.

Directors of the club are planning a supper meeting Thursday at 6:15 in the Betz restaurant to work out several projects, one of which may be a recreation program to be carried out through the Winter for younger boys of the city. Tentative plans call for use of the high school gymnasium on Saturday mornings for grade school boys, with school authorities cooperating.

Self-Ration Natural Gas NOW!

TO DELAY IS TOO LATE!

Every cubic foot of natural gas used now means just that much less will be available in the winter months ahead. And you've already been advised that there is 15% less gas available this season.

War industries that need this fuel so urgently are making every possible saving in its use. Certainly you are willing to make the slight adjustments in your living habits necessary for you to save 15% in your uses of natural gas. Do this the American way, by Self-Rationing now, so that policing of your uses of gas will not be necessary later.

FOLDER TELLS HOW TO SAVE GAS

Some 40 suggestions for saving natural gas in your home or place of business are incorporated in this folder. Ask for a free copy at our office on your next visit downtown.

THE OHIO FUEL Gas Company

GAS SERVES THE HOME FRONT AND WAR INDUSTRIES

Depend upon your regular heating plant. Don't supplement with gas heaters. Shut off rooms instead.

Insulating jackets for uncovered hot water tanks are inexpensive — save lots of gas.

65° is the wartime temperature for all fuels in daytime — 55° at bedtime.

Draw window shades or drapes completely in all rooms at night — in unused rooms in daytime.

Place rugs against doors leading to unheated rooms, particularly if windows are raised at night.

Light range burners only when cooking. Keep flame as low as possible to do the cooking.

Close off seldom used rooms and shut registers in them.

Don't wash hands or dishes in running hot water. Use drain plug in basin of sink.

Population Loss Of 6.6 Percent Listed In Pickaway County

Pickaway county's civilian population is gradually decreasing, a survey made by the U. S. Bureau of Census showing that the county has lost 6.6 percent of its population from April 1, 1940, to March 1, 1943.

The census bureau reported that the county's population in 1940 was 27,889, but that in the three year period up to March, 1943, it had skidded to 26,035.

Figures reported by the Census Bureau were obtained through a check of registrations for War Ration Book 2. Allowances were made for inaccuracies in the registration report.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

To The Editor:

Halloween pranksters certainly made a fine contribution this year to the cause of Hitler and Hirohito.

After the articles that appeared in The Herald, the youngsters showed a particular lack of patriotism.

Enough material was wasted in soaping the show windows and entire front windows at Brehmer Greenhouses, to require the patient saving of fats for several weeks by some patriotic housewife. She hoarded waste fats in order that some hilarious hoodlum could show what a valiant chap he was by soaping windows where no one lived and he stood a poor chance of being caught at his act of vandalism. The vandal or vandals were boys large enough to read what had been written in The Herald, for smaller kids could not have reached so high on the windows. Not only were the windows smeared with enough material to make a lot of ammunition but sand and grit imbedded in the soap seriously scratched the plate glass.

Why should we tolerate mutilation and destruction of property under the guise of perpetuating some pagan custom? The Chamber of Commerce did a fine thing in providing the costume parade as an outlet for the kids high spirits and masquerade parties are fine but now is the time to take some action toward preventing this abuse of public tolerance in the future. Parents could do a lot to prevent this abuse. Our police department is not large enough to cover the entire town area but if a law were made, making it a civil offense to soap windows and the parents of a few of the violators were sent to jail and next day compelled to wash the windows at a time when most folk could see them; it would do a lot to deter the practice. Another method might be too drastic but results could be obtained by declaring a curfew on youngsters being on the streets after dark on days of the Halloween period.

Certainly the public has suffered this abuse long enough and action should be taken right now to prevent it in the future.

Yours truly,
R. L. Brehmer

WOLFORDS LEARN OF CAMP WHERE HUNS HOLD SON

Mr. and Mrs. John Wolford of Pickaway township received information today from Mrs. Dorothy Saggese, 92 White street, East Boston, Mass., concerning the German prison camp, Stalag Luft 3, where their son, Lieutenant Lawrence Wolford, is reported to be a prisoner of war.

Mrs. Saggese wrote the Wolfords that she had "received some information about Stalag Luft 3 and I am sure you will be interested."

Young Wolford became a war prisoner when the Flying Fortress on which he was a bombardier failed to return after a raid on Hamburg.

The camp, Mrs. Saggese wrote, is in Sagan, in a pine woods area about 85 miles southeast of Berlin. It has a healthy climate and is cool throughout the Summer. "In fact," she wrote, "it would be difficult to find any Allied nation not represented there."

The American compound's one square mile of area is divided into 15 buildings each housing 80 men. There is a good athletic field, large theatre made by the men themselves, a swimming pool, and much entertainment is provided by the talented American and British officers.

Mrs. Saggese wrote that food appears adequate, but added "this is true only because Red Cross food parcels arrive regularly. German rations in common with most camps provide little better than a bare subsistence."

The Boston woman wrote that German authorities apparently extend considerable latitude to the men in administering their own affairs.

While Mrs. Saggese did not disclose her source of information, the Wolfords presume she did considerable investigating since her own son is held a prisoner in the same camp.

While this description is of Stalag Luft 3, it is believed likely that this camp is similar to any others in which American prisoners may be held. Pickaway county has 14 other men known to be prisoners of the Nazis, 13 taken in February in Tunisia, and the fourteenth, Sergeant Benny Johnson, becoming a prisoner when his Fortress also failed to return from a mission over the continent.

TO DELAY IS TOO LATE!

Every cubic foot of natural gas used now means just that much less will be available in the winter months ahead. And you've already been advised that there is 15% less gas available this season.

War industries that need this fuel so urgently are making every possible saving in its use. Certainly you are willing to make the slight adjustments in your living habits necessary for you to save 15% in your uses of natural gas. Do this the American way, by Self-Rationing now, so that policing of your uses of gas will not be necessary later.

INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCES

HERBERT Hoover, discussing the controversial question of an alliance between the United States and Great Britain, declares against it. He does so on the ground that such an alliance would "generate organized opposition by the other 90 percent of the human race" to what would be regarded as "a step to mastery of the world by English-speaking people." He goes beyond the question of a British-American league. He would "discard all proposals of military alliances as instruments of peace."

Obviously there are two sides to this question. Mr. Hoover's position represents the usual American attitude in recent times toward international alliances. Early American history, however, shows no such historic prejudice against them as many of our people imagine. The independence of the United States was accomplished largely by an alliance with France, and the Declaration of Independence expressly declared the right to make international alliances.

In recent generations the practice has been avoided, on the principle of "friendship for all and entangling alliances with none." But today many Americans, observing the new problems and perils of these times, are disposed to draw the bonds more tightly between like-minded nations with similar interests. Honest nations, they argue, must do this to protect themselves from criminal nations.

EUROPEAN YOUTH

THERE was, and is, great weakness in Italy. But there is also hope. It is in Italian youth. The stout, three-days' battle in Naples against the retreating Germans was waged mainly by schoolboys and university students. Again and again, when middle-aged officers ordered the military cadets and young soldiers in the barracks to surrender, they refused and fought on. Recent reports tell of stout fighting still kept up in the mountains, with increasing recruits only 17 and 18 years old.

"In every account of anti-German and anti-Fascism resistance," writes Anne O'Hare McCormick in the New York Times, "the emphasis is on youth. This may seem strange to those who assume that the greatest danger to the future is the generation indoctrinated in the Fascist philosophy. But it does not surprise those who have observed the reaction. In Italy the university students were the first to be excited by Mussolini and his slogans, and the first to rebel against them. In Germany, too, there is reaction in the schools."

It seems as if European youth itself, instead of going to destruction with the Nazi and Fascist dupes, will help to cleanse Europe of these twin plagues.

The German rocket guns are not so new after all. Witness the line in the "Star Spangled Banner": "the rockets' red glare."

U. S. Submarine Campaign Against Japs Is Big Success
Survey Shows There'll Be Plenty of Christmas Toys
Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—The Navy finally is beginning to tell the real story of the smashing successful American submarine campaign against the Japanese shipping, but a lot of good news still is being held back for security reasons.
Newsmen in Washington for months knew that tabulations of Japanese sinkings based on Navy communiqués were 30 to 50 per cent too low.
As of Sept. 9 a total of 312 enemy ships were listed as sunk or damaged.
The Navy finally came out with a backlog of unreported sinkings which boosted that figure by 148 ships to make the total 460.
To prevent information from reaching the enemy, the reports of American submarine successes are believed to be withheld by the Navy for from four to six months.
On this basis, the Navy undoubtedly still has a fair-sized backlog that would boost the total well over 500 ships.
This belief was underscored recently by President Roosevelt when he announced that during the past six months United States submarines have been sinking Japanese ships at a rate of 130 thousand tons a month.
Recent release of the Jap ship sinking roundup by the Navy should do much to boost that branch of the service in the eyes of Americans.
Hitherto, the Navy was criticized often because it allegedly gave out only good news and withheld bad news.
This all proves that sometimes even good news must be withheld.
FOUR LIBERATOR BOMBERS, formidable in their new desert-tan warpaint, were drawn up on the concrete facing the main Bolling field hangar.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON

REYNOLDS MAY NOT RUN AGAIN

WASHINGTON—Grave doubt has arisen in the minds of senatorial colleagues as to whether their vivacious friend, Robert Rice Reynolds of North Carolina, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, plans to run for re-election.

They base this partly on the strange fact that the senator did not go back to his native state during the Summer recess. Also they figure that perhaps the ebullient Robert, who, even his enemies admit, has a generous helping of political shrewdness, realizes that with new wealth and a new wife, the re-election battle would be too uphill even to try.

"Our Bob," whose first business enterprise was running a skating rink where Huey Long sold swamp root, now is seen in very select society. Also he is more dignified and paternal.

All this indicates the influence of his new 20-year-old bride, Evalyn McLean, heiress to the McLean fortune, whose father was one of Harding's intimates and whose mother once intrigued Washington with her book "Father Struck It Rich," telling how her Irish immigrant parent struck gold in Colorado.

Evie and Bob now have a 1,100 acre farm in Maryland and a Winter place at Palm Beach, where they purchased the former home of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst.

Undoubtedly the senator recalls how he defeated Senator Cameron Morrison, also blessed with a wealthy wife. Reynolds told North Carolinians all about the swank dinner parties given by Senator Morrison, reciting items on the menu, with special emphasis on caviar.

"And do you know what caviar is, my friends?" he would shout. "Caviar is fish eggs! Fish eggs! Are you going to send back to the senate a man who eats fish eggs?"

Today, it is Senator Reynolds who is eating fish eggs. And he knows that his primary opponent, ex-Governor Clyde Hoey, is sure to let the folks back home know about it.

AGE VS. NONSENSE

Towering, 66-year-old Senator Tom Connally of Texas is touchy about his age, doesn't list it in his Congressional Directory biography and doesn't like pointed references to it by the senate press gallery.

The other day the popular Texan braced United Press reporter John Cutler, who had written a story depicting the battle over the Texan's post-war foreign policy resolution as a "youth versus age" debate, which, in truth, it is.

Newshound Cutler reported that the drive to put some teeth into the resolution was led by younger members of the senate—Pepper of Florida, 43, Ball of Minnesota, 39, Bridges of New Hampshire, 45, and others—while older senators, including Connally, were demanding that the compromising resolution be enacted without change.

Connally was furious about being classed with the rocking-chair fraternity. "You've interviewed me a lot," he told Cutler angrily. "Now I want to interview you."

The newly-formed Yugoslavian air unit, clad in United States Army Air Forces uniforms, stood at attention in front of the planes as President Roosevelt gave them their wings and told them their future mission will be to bomb the Germans out of Yugoslavia.

Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, the president's genial military aide, was standing next to an airforce brigadier, watching the ceremonies. Watson turned to the brigadier and inquired: "What are those big things out there, general—bombers?"

WHITE CHRISTMAS or green Christmas—it'll be a war Christmas this year—with the heavy hand of Mars everywhere, even in the nurseries of the nation.

However, there is no reason why it shouldn't be a merry Christmas for the kids. Shortages will occur, but there will be substitutes to make a real Yule celebration possible.

For instance, wooden substitutes for metal toys will be commonplace even more than last year and an expected shortage of Christmas trees from the normally big centers of production may be partially made up for by the cutting of trees locally.

Here's the pre-Christmas picture as it appears to official Washington:

TOYS—No electrical or mechanical items such as trains, construction sets and other goods made of metal except those left over from last year's unsold stock. Plenty of wooden toys and games.

TREES—Labor and truck shortages will cut production by some regular dealers by 50 per cent and other dealers may not be in the market at all. But local farm families will help overcome this difficulty. Some commercial dealers in the Pacific Northwest have reported that they expect to cut trees as usual.

GIFTS—None that are made of war-precious metal, except hold-overs from last year. Plenty of leather goods and an increased trend toward clothing and useful gifts.

GREETING CARDS—Plenty of them, but lighter in weight and smaller in size (to save paper), and fewer in design (to save the zinc and copper plates). Fewer box selections (to save boxes).

FOOD—Probably fewer turkeys on the Christmas table than usual because of military demands and decreased production, but more chickens from a bumper chicken crop.

TRIMMINGS—Such as cranberries, will be scarce because of military demands.

DIET AND HEALTH
Science of Old Age New Medical Study

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
THE NEW specialties in medicine are all very dietetics and geriatrics. The last means the science of old people.

The main problem of geriatrics is whether old age is a disease or not.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

A kind of physiologic process. I was talking to one of the new prophets of this science the other day and he began to list the things that the bodies of old people did that could not possibly be classified as disease processes.

"For instance," he said, "all the cells in a young person's body divide about every year. Some of them divide and make two cells as often as once a minute. The old saying that we have an entirely new body every year depends a great deal on what class of cells you are talking about."

Activity of Cells
"They must have been thinking of the old person when they made it every seven years. Except for the nerve cells, which never renew themselves, the young person is a hive of activity. Think how often his bone cells replace themselves, and his muscles and his skin."

"The old organism is a sluggish affair compared to that. But it couldn't quite be called a disease. This holds true for tissue oxidation also. The young cell is using up oxygen at a terrible rate, while the old one finds it an awful effort to absorb a molecule of oxygen once an hour."

"Some systems are faster than others. The heart and blood vessels are the first to go. And the digestive system hangs on a long time. You have often wondered how well grandpa's appetite holds up. That's true, but he has a terrible time climbing the stairs without puffing and hanging onto his heart."

Brain and Nervous System
"The brain and nervous system are variable. In some they go to pieces early, in others, late. When you consider that the world is more or less run by men over sixty—Roosevelt, Churchill, Stimson, Hull, Knox, Morgenthau, Ickes—you must acknowledge that the brain holds up very well."

"There is one great fear that elderly people can rid themselves of. They stand surgical operations very well. In fact, they stand them much better than medicines. I have seen an old gaffer go wild as a coot on a dose of luminal that would have put a fellow of twenty to sleep like a baby. And I have seen an old man take an anesthetic and have about a foot of his bowel taken out and never turn a hair."

A recent article on this subject by Mr. (that means he is a surgeon) Norman Tanner, of London, emphasizes this and if there happen to be any timid young surgeons in my audience, I advise them to read his paper in the "British Medical Journal" for May 8.

I would a good deal rather have someone seventy than seven to operate on.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. A. X.—Does a temperature of 96½ or 97, or 97½ indicate something wrong?
Answer: The normal temperature is 98½. The figures you quote are very low. Perhaps you do not leave the thermometer in the mouth long enough, or perhaps you have a defective thermometer. If these figures are accurate, it indicates the necessity for a building-up process. Also a complete examination.

SYNOPSIS

Roommates and cousins. DENNIS ARCHER, serious-minded and trusting. ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, and that the tense atmosphere accompanying America's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with JIM RONALD, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Andrea has been attracted by DENNIS ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but wealthy and interesting—and also married.

CHAPTER FOUR

"... WOULD advise thorough investigation of records as of January to March 19..." Judge Mayfield's droning voice stopped abruptly and he peered at his secretary over his spectacles. "You get that, Beth?" he asked gently.

Beth bent her head to escape his kindly eyes and mumbled. "I'm sorry, Judge. If you'll just go back one paragraph."

The judge reached over and took the pencil out of her hand. It was the third one with its point snapped off in as many days.

"What's the matter?" he asked bluntly.

Beth smiled wanly. "I don't know. Nothing really. I haven't been sleeping very well. I guess I read too many detective stories."

"It couldn't be that young man of yours going off to camp?"

"He's not... not my..."

Beth fled. She went into her own office and put on her coat and hat and went out. And when she was on the street, she didn't know where to go. She thought of the judge's kindly face and wondered what he would have said if she had told him about the squirrel cage she was in. What answer could a stranger have given her to the question to which she knew no answer?

She had been over it and over it, that look she had surprised on Jim's face, the look on Andrea's three nights ago. Only a look. No other sign. Not even any other sign. Had she imagined it and what it might mean?

It was that which had tortured her every moment, waking and sleeping.

Jim had been the same as he always was after Andrea left, and at lunch yesterday where they always lunched. He'd talked in the same old way, treated her the same way.

No, nothing was changed between them. Nothing had progressed and nothing would. Why? Because there was something felt but unspoken between Jim and Andrea?

Beth felt the hand tighten against her temples. If there was some way of knowing, of ending the torture of what might only be imagination. If the time would only come when she could go into the house without dread, not to have to avoid Andrea's questioning gaze. If only she had the courage to ask one or the other. But that she lacked.

"I can't give up," she cried to herself. "He's been my whole world since the first day. I had no past, and my present and my future are his."

Andrea had other beaux, many of them. Or she had had before Dennis Archer came into her life. Thinking of Dennis Archer was surcease. Another time, it would have troubled Beth to think of Dennis and Andrea, for she was sure that this attachment between the man so many years Andrea's senior, wealthy and married, could end only in unhappiness. She had told that to Andrea but once, and then the night that Andrea had come in with her eyes shining and said, "I've met him, darling! He's smooth and worldly and charming and wonderful! He's rich, too. He's like a diamond after rhinestones, caviar after hamburgers, Paris dresses after bargain basement numbers. I'm through with clerks and half-baked boys. I'm never going to live in a vine-covered cottage or cook a meal. For me, it will be a Regency house and all that goes with it. . . . Or maybe I could stand the other if he were in it."

And when Beth had brought her down to earth and Andrea said, "Who is he? Who is the most attractive man in Pennington, but Dennis Archer?" Beth had been shocked and said, "Andrea, the Archer mills! Everybody knows he's married."

"But not living with his wife," Andrea pointed out. "Everybody knows they're separated. . . . It's wonderful, Beth, and you'll adore him, too."

"How did you meet him?"

"There was nothing improper about it," Andrea assured her. "It was raining and I was waiting for a street car and he drove past and splashed me with mud. I looked horrified and so he stopped and offered to drive me home. I said I wasn't going home because you had company, so . . . so he took me to dinner."

"Andrea Barnes!"

Andrea had laughed. "Bold? My sweet, girls like you and me have to be bold. We don't meet the kind of men we want to meet working in offices. Anyway every woman has to go out and take what she wants, or she deserves not to get it. Mark my words."

Beth had not marked her words, although she remembered them now. Andrea would always take what she wanted—unless she wanted Jim.

Beth was very sure that Andrea would not want Jim if she knew Beth did.

The thought of Dennis Archer returned to Beth's mind.

She wondered if she would have liked Dennis if he had not been married. He was all that Andrea said, smooth and worldly and charming, sometimes grave and sometimes gay, and frequently at their apartment. Dennis was in love with Andrea, Beth was sure, and she resented it, as she would resent any act of dishonor. Let him get a divorce or be divorced, and then court Andrea.

Beth had been politely pleasant to him, no more, and when she told Andrea why, that had been the end of any conversation about him.

Beth's hopes took wing. Why hadn't she thought of that before during these three days? Dennis might be getting a divorce. Dennis and Andrea might be secretly engaged. What a little fool she was to have shut out confidences between herself and Andrea.

She went home then, and got a dinner of the sort Andrea would like, creamed soup and stuffed alligator pear and a dripping sweet. Moving about the small kitchen, she felt like someone coming out of a fever, all her fears swept away, a sense of anticipation buoying her up.

If Andrea didn't feel that way about Jim, the way Beth feared, Jim would still be her own and time would right everything. Had he not told her she was "an angel?"

Andrea—dear Andrea, gay and pretty Andrea—came in when Beth was fixing dinner and said, "Goodies are under way, and you're looking less than a hag for a change. What's come over you lately, Beth?"

"Slight attack of imagination, that's all. Speaking of changes"—Beth's voice was deliberately light—"seems to me you've been rather subdued this week? Anything on your mind?"

Andrea's eyes were evasive and she said, "No, nothing more than usual."

Beth plunged: "Believe it or not, I think I'm coming around to liking Dennis."

Andrea pushed her plate away with an abrupt gesture and, getting up, she strode across the room and pushed the curtains aside. She said, "She's here, Beth. Dennis' wife is back here. I hate her! She doesn't want him, but she won't let him go—he says. I think I hate him, too. He's never going to marry me."

Beth got up and went to the window, pulling Andrea about so that she could look into her face. "Does he love you?"

"There were high spots of anger burning on Andrea's cheeks. "Yes," she said vehemently, "but that's not enough. I'm 25 and I'm not waiting any longer. I'd marry anybody tonight who'd ask me."

Then she sat down and calmly finished her sweet, and a little later she said casually, "Is Jim stopping by tonight?"

Beth never flicked an eyelash when she lied. "No, I'm meeting him downtown. We're going to see a movie. . . . I'm going to run out now and buy some cigarettes."

She got a nickel out of her purse and went down to the drug store to tell Jim that Andrea was entertaining, and ask him to meet her at the Palace Theater. It was the first time she had ever done a thing like that in her life.

PURDUE JUGGLING ITS LINEUP; STARS MISSING

LA FAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 2—The process of rebuilding Purdue Boilermakers, who lost 13 members by Marine and Navy transfers, was well under way today. In preparing for the Minnesota game at Minneapolis Saturday, Coach Elmer Burnham groomed George Mihal, a freshman, and Chalmers Elliott, a Marine trainee, for the post of Tony Butkovich, the nation's leading ground gainer by rushing, who was one of five backs lost to the squad.

FIGHT CALLED OFF

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Mike Jacobs today announced a second postponement of the opening of his St. Nicholas arena boxing series due to calling off of the main bout. Coley Welch, middleweight from Portland, Me., who was to meet George Kochan of Akron, O., was forbidden to fight by Dr. William H. Walker, after examination at the state boxing commission offices revealed Welch was suffering from a nose and eye infection.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.

It was still uncertain today whether Obie Oberhelman's recent knee injury would heal sufficiently to permit him to play center for Yale against Brown and Princeton. The injury was x-rayed yesterday while Yale linemen and backs drilled on passing defense.

CUBS INDICATE WILSON MAY BE BACK FOR 1944

CHICAGO, Nov. 2—To one whose simple, child-like faith in plain, everyday straight-ahead, 6-2-2-1 gumption has long been the boast of his admirers and the envy of his critics, it seemed fairly clear that—tacitly and to every intent—Jimmy Wilson was yesterday reappointed manager of the Chicago Cubs for the season of 1944.

In fact, his unannounced appearance at the annual draft meeting of the major leagues, where formally and officially he helped to represent the Cubs, was something that apparently lent itself to almost no other interpretation.

The meeting was held strictly for purposes of trafficking in human chattels, on which delivery was to be taken in 1944. Mr. Wilson was present on behalf of the club he has managed for three seasons. Therefore, if he isn't going to manage the '44 club, what did they mean by having him there to look over '44 prospects?

But missed there's something we maybe, some inference, some subtlety too complex for our comprehension.

For said one local source this morning: "The fire Wilson" campaigners were slightly taken back by the fellow's appearance," but said nothing to indicate that a definite step of some sort had thereby been indicated. The item, moreover, was buried in the body of the story.

And said another (also deep down in the page): "Wilson's presence was considered especially significant in checkmating rumors of his replacement."

HAVANA CAGERS BOOKED

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—The University of Havana 1942 season champion Pan-American Olympics basketball squad will play three games in this country this season. Ned Irish, acting president of Madison Square Garden, said the Havana team would appear at the Garden against Long Island University December 25. The Cubans will play Canisius College December 28 at Buffalo and Temple in Philadelphia January 1.

PURDUE JUGGLING ITS LINEUP; STARS MISSING

LAFALETTE, Ind., Nov. 2—The process of rebuilding Purdue Boilermakers, who lost 13 members by Marine and Navy transfers, was well under way today. In preparation for the Minnesota game at Minneapolis Saturday, Coach Elmer Burnham groomed George Mihal, a freshman, and Chalmers Elliott, a Marine trainee, for the post of Tony Butkovich, the nation's leading ground gainer by rushing, who was one of five backs lost to the squad.

JOHNNY LUJACK ASSIGNED

One of Year's Toughest Jobs Replacing Bertelli

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Check back through the records and find an instance where any football player has inherited a tougher spot than the one that falls to Johnny Lujack, of Notre Dame.

Before 75,000 spectators packed into Yankee stadium for what may be the greatest gridiron encounter of the year he is going to take the place of Angelo Bertelli in the battle of the T-formations. He is going to run the Notre Dame team and do the intricate ball-handling against an Army eleven that is returning from a tie with Penn.

He will do much of the passing for Notre Dame, a little running, much defensive work, plus most of the thinking. He will do it in Notre Dame's biggest tussle to date, with a perfect record riding on the outcome of the things he does and doesn't do. The 18-year-old sophomore from Connelville, Pa., will assume that burden without Bertelli on the bench to take over in case trouble begins to engulf the Notre Dames.

On Giant's Errand

Here is a shifty-faced little boy hop-scotching off on a giant's errand if there ever was one.

Notre Dame players have complete confidence in him, although he can't pass in the same league with Bertelli, now a U. S. Marine who will be remembered among the super-giants from the South Bend campus. Neither is he so far quite the all-around player that Bertelli was. He may be some day but for the purposes of Saturday's game that is of scant benefit.

All this was brought out rather pointedly here yesterday in off the record chats among some of the football coaches gathered for the weekly luncheon with the local sports writers.

"I can't think of any thing worse than losing Bertelli before a big game, unless it might be to meet a team that had Sammy Baugh to do the forward passing and Don Hutson to catch them," said one of the gents who prowled along the sidelines Saturday after-

LEONARD WARREN

Leonard Warren, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, the King Sisters, and comedians Jack Douglas and Gus Schilling will be guests of Don Ameche on "What's New?" program, November 6, at 6 p. m. over the Blue network. In Washington, Jim Ameche will interview J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

On November 10 the United States Marines will celebrate their 166th anniversary. In honor of the occasion "What's New?" will present three members of the Marine Flying Squadron known as the "Wolf Pack." The fliers, Capt. Kenneth Kirk, Capt. James Johnson and Capt. Arch Donohue, have just returned from the South Pacific area where their squadron scored an amazing record of downing 90 Jap planes.

One of the younger artists at the Metropolitan Opera, Leonard Warren, a recording star, will appear in a leading role of "Boris Godunoff," the opening opera for the fall season. A winner of the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, Mr. Warren's immediate promotion to leading roles at the Met made musical history since the baritone singer had no previous experience in the operatic field.

BENNY GOODMAN

Since encores and curtain calls are impossible in the tight time schedule of radio even for the King of Swing, a return engagement has been scheduled for Benny Goodman on Barry Wood's "Million Dollar Band" over NBC Saturday at 9 p. m. This has been arranged to meet the demands of a radio audience which flooded the mails with enthusiastic responses, and an overflow studio audience.

Benny, who on his previous engagement enraptured listeners with his sweet and low clarinet work on "I'm In the Mood for Love" and then broke out into a furiously hot version of "Sweet Georgia Brown," will make his comeback with some original arrangements of more recent tunes.

HENRY RUSSELL

Henry Russell sings and plays on the novachord "She's the Sweetheart of the Service," which he wrote in collaboration with Buzz Adlam, arranger for Horace Heidt's orchestra, as a highlight of the Heidt "Treasure Chest" program on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. over WLW. The band opens the show with "Sky Anchors," and Gloria Wood's solo is "They're Either Too Young or Too Old."

Bob Mathews sings "If You Please," and the band plays Adlam's special arrangement of "How Sweet You Are." The Glee Club, Donna and her Don Juans, with Fred Lowery whistling, join in the closer, "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes."

GROUCHO GREET'S MEMBER

Ida Lupino, member of a famous English acting family, meets Groucho Marx, member of a famous American comic family, on Groucho's broadcast, on Saturday at 7 p. m. over WBNS. The show originates at the Marine Air Station at El Toro, Calif., with Fay McKenzie and Bill Davis, featured vocalists, and Robert Armbruster's orchestra providing the music.

BRIEF RADIO NOTES

You can expect Kay Kyser and his "College of Musical Knowledge" troupe to play "nursery rhymes" when they guest on the NBC "Bandwagon" Sunday, November 7 at 6:30 p. m. Reason is that the entire studio audience will be composed of Red Cross, Army and Navy nurses and members of the recently formed Nurse Cadet Corps.

Arlene Francis appears in Milton Geiger's original drama, "The Starry Room" on the "Treasury Star Parade." It will be heard the week of November 7, via transcription. Miss Francis, who portrays a home front heroine in the play, is currently starring in the Blue network's "Blind Date" series.

Phil Baker, the "Take It or Leave It" quipmaster, has been engaged to bring a theatre version of his radio quiz to the Roxy Theatre, in New York, in January. Baker is working out a special variation on his CBS Sunday night quiz for the occasion.

Jay Jostyn, featured in radio's

"Parker Family," reflects: "Hitler isn't making any speeches, these days. Probably a bit of Hamburg got lodged in his throat!"

Billy Mills, maestro of the Fibber McGee show, this week turned down an offer to become Western musical head of a national network.

Jack Shilkret, music conductor on the Jim McWilliams "Correction Please" programs over CBS Saturday nights, has been renewed as music scorer and conductor for Columbia Pictures short subjects.

Knece To Face Quick Trial As Result of Jail Break

JUDGE ORDERS PROSECUTOR TO SPEED ACTION

Court Seeks To Clear County Prison Of Dangerous Ex-Convict

KNOWN AS "BAD ACTOR"

Grand Jury May Be Called To Probe Cases Of Other Accused Men

Acting immediately on the heels of Pickaway county's first jail break in many years, Judge Meeker Terwilliger of common pleas court said Tuesday that he had given Prosecutor George Gerhardt instructions to prepare to put Kenneth Knece, 30, principal figure in the break, on trial immediately for armed robbery. Knece is held in his cell in the county jail following recapture Saturday afternoon about seven hours after he fled the prison during an attack on Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

"Knece has been in our jail several weeks," the judge declared. "We know he is a bad actor and we know he is dangerous as long as he remains in the jail."

The judge and Prosecutor Gerhardt conferred Monday concerning clearing the jail of the convict, who has served the last 12 years in Ohio reformatory at Mansfield, Ohio prison and the London prison farm.

Sheriff Lucky

The judge expressed belief that Sheriff Radcliff, who was choked by Harold Dufore, 23, another prisoner, permitting Knece to escape, was fortunate to have escaped without serious injury. Timely arrival on the scene by Charles Gray, the sheriff's son-in-law, saved the county official from severe hurts and also prevented what might have been a wholesale delivery from the jail's first floor.

Knece was a fugitive from the London prison farm at the time he is charged with robbing Charles Ailles, pipeline employee, while he was sitting in his car on the Kingston pike. Knece's brother, Harold, was with him at the time of the robbery, county officials charge. He was also caught at New Concord after the car the youths were driving overturned. Harold is held in county jail for juvenile authorities. Disposition of his case may be delayed until trial of his brother.

Returned to City

The Ailles robbery was early in August, Knece being held for sometime in Cambridge before being turned over to local authorities. The two brothers were kept on a floor of the Guernsey county jail by themselves, and the sheriff there informed Sheriff Radcliff that they wrecked it, destroying pipes and furniture. They were held there on concealed weapons charges, but were released to Pickaway county to face the more serious charge of armed robbery.

Not only did the judge instruct the prosecutor to prepare immediately to put Knece on trial, but he also indicated that the September grand jury may be called into session to dispose of other pending criminal cases.

Dufore and Charles Roy Boggs, both charged with automobile theft, have not yet been indicted although both have been in jail for some time. Several others are in the jail after being bound to the grand jury but unable to make bond. Dufore, six foot three inch Army deserter, made no effort to escape last Saturday after attacking the sheriff, returning to his cell. Boggs, from Delaware county, ran from the jail with Knece but was caught in an alley by Gray.

While the court and the prosecutor are making preparations to clear the jail of its more dangerous prisoners, Knece, Dufore and Boggs continue to partake of a bread and water diet. All three are also confined to their cells, not being permitted to enter the corridors around the cell block.

The first observance of Thanksgiving Day at Plymouth began on Thursday, November 3, 1943, and closed with a state dinner on Saturday.

PURINA PLANS THREE ADDED TO SOYBEAN PLANT PRICE PANEL OF CAPACITY BOOST

Ralston Purina Co. has closed its soybean processing plant for the next three weeks to permit extensive improvements which will greatly increase the plant's capacity for handling beans.

The expansion program has been planned for some time, with the amount of soybeans being harvested locally calling for more processing equipment.

The soybean crop this year was a great one, many thousands of bushels being handled by the Ralston Purina and John W. Eshelman and Sons companies. Question of storage remains a major one, with practically all space in central Ohio and in other districts being rented and leased by the milling firms for storage. The harvest this year has been a highly successful one from the processor's and the producer's standpoint.

CIGARETS NOT TO BE RATIONED, BOARD INFORMED

Office of Price Administration, in a communication to the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing board, declared Tuesday that rumors of cigaret rationing which have been going the rounds lately have been denied in Washington. Rationing is not contemplated, OPA declares, because even if a shortage existed cigarettes are not considered a necessary commodity.

In view of these rumors and a reported run on retail stores, OPA said, officials of the Tobacco Distributors' association have advised dealers that there is an abundance of tobacco and cautioned them against overstocking, because the keeping qualities of cigarettes have been greatly reduced under war production.

Demand for supplies of cigarettes is expected to ease now that the time has expired when they can be shipped overseas to members of the armed forces for Christmas, OPA stated.

WHEAT UNCERTAINTIES

Though no announcement has been made, inside word in the Agriculture Department is that wheat farmers will get a loan price of 90 percent of parity, which is a five percent increase over this year.

Officials recognize that something attractive must be done to increase wheat plantings. As it looks now, plantings are going to fall below the high goals set by the government—an acreage increase of 14 million over this year.

This year farmers had the 85-percent-of-parity loan, which acted to support the price, plus both parity payments and conservation payments. But Congress has knocked out parity payments for next year, leaving a margin of uncertainty as to whether wheat will bring as much as flax or grain sorghums, or some other crop.

Planting is now well along in the winter wheat belt, but it is reported to be a slack planting. Never has there been so much demand by farmers to know what the price is going to be. And the official answer is still withheld.

And when the announcement is made, it will be a loan figure of 90 percent of parity, whereas farmers would like to have 100 percent, to make up for the loss of parity payments.

All this confusion comes at a time when there is a greater demand for wheat than this country has ever known. In addition to the tremendous demand for wheat for flour, 450 million bushels have been used for animal feed in the past 12 months, and still more will be needed for the same purpose in the next year. And beyond that, the government has pledged another 50 million bushels for foreign relief.

All this explains why the gates are being opened again to imports of wheat and barley from Argentina, for the first time in quantity since the drought years.

MAD DOGS OF WASHINGTON

In recent years, the capital has gained the reputation of being a mad house. In a much more liberal sense, it is a mad house today, for the dogs as well as the humans are going mad.

There are more cases of rabies in Washington today than for years. Old ladies are donning long underwear, before Winter comes, as a protection against dog bites. The mildest lap dog excites as much fear as a wolf.

But a lot of people are mad who haven't been bitten. They are mad at the health department for letting dogs run loose if muzzled.

Doctors and vets are up in arms against the ruling. In the first place, there aren't enough muzzles to go around; also, some types of muzzles do not prevent biting; while other types shake loose and hang on the dog like a necklace.

Only effective way to stop the epidemic is to confine all dogs to the premises, or take them out on leash.

Meantime, the puzzled, muzzled dogs look on, while vets and health officers fly at each other's throats.

Cocoa ranks second among Panama crops, second in the Dominican Republic, and third in Costa Rica. Smaller amounts are produced in Haiti, Honduras, El Salvador, Cuba and Guatemala.

Knece To Face Quick Trial As Result of Jail Break

JUDGE ORDERS PROSECUTOR TO SPEED ACTION

Court Seeks To Clear County Prison Of Dangerous Ex-Convict

KNOWN AS "BAD ACTOR"

Grand Jury May Be Called To Probe Cases Of Other Accused Men

Acting immediately on the heels of Pickaway county's first jail break in many years, Judge Meeker Terwilliger of common pleas court said Tuesday that he had given Prosecutor George Gerhardt instructions to prepare to put Kenneth Knece, 30, principal figure in the break, on trial immediately for armed robbery. Knece is held in his cell in the county jail following recapture Saturday afternoon about seven hours after he fled the prison during an attack on Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

"Knece has been in our jail several weeks," the judge declared. "We know he is a bad actor and we know he is dangerous as long as he remains in the jail."

The judge and Prosecutor Gerhardt conferred Monday concerning clearing the jail of the convict, who has served the last 12 years in Ohio reformatory at Mansfield, Ohio prison and the London prison farm.
